The Political Aspect. Just now the attention of all persons who feel an interest in the future of this country is being ziveted to events transpiring in the Northern States. No sane man, it seems, can fail to understand that a great political struggle is going on, one which many persons believe will end in blood-shed and revo lution; indeed the leaders of both the radical and conservative parties are continually assuring the masses that war is inevitable. majority of all the members of congress cies." elect; that President Johnson will transmit his message to that body and recognize them as the constitutional cougress; that the minority, or the radical party, will endeavor to persuade the people that they are the true law makers of the land, and refuse to sanction what Mr. Johnson does in discharging his sworn duty; that they will be foolish enough to attempt to sustain themselves by the force of arms; and that they will be the worst whipped set of traitors and usurpers that ever disgraced any portion of the inhabitable globe. War is a terrible thing; but it is often unavoidable, and is forced upon those who shudder at its very mention by the recklessnes of miserable tricksters who take good care to keep their bodies at a safe of peace, but if the mad and wicked spirit of radicalism continues to strike blow after tlow at the only foundation the American people have of safety in the future, she will be found standing by the side of the great consave the country from utter ruin.
